Centre of the World's Hard Wheat Area or
Queen City of the Prairies

Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan, is the Financial, Educational and Commercial centre of this province whose settled area extends 400 miles East and West, and North and South. The province of Saskatchewan is the most extensive and productive of wheat-raising area in the world, with the result that in Regina you will find the largest grain-marketing institution in existence. The Saskatchewan Co-operative Wheat Producers, better known perhaps as the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, is at the present time placing on the world's markets, more than 100,000,000 bushels of Saskatchewan-grown wheat annually. This institution recently absorbed the Saskatchewan Co-Operative Elevators Ltd., hitherto the most extensive Canadian selling organization and becomes possessed of that company's terminal plants at the head of the Lakes and Buffalo, N.Y.

The Dairying Industry of the province has increased enormously of late years and bids soon to rival in wealth that of grain; the Co-Operative Creameries Ltd., the largest institution of its kind in the province has its principal manufacturing plant in Regina.

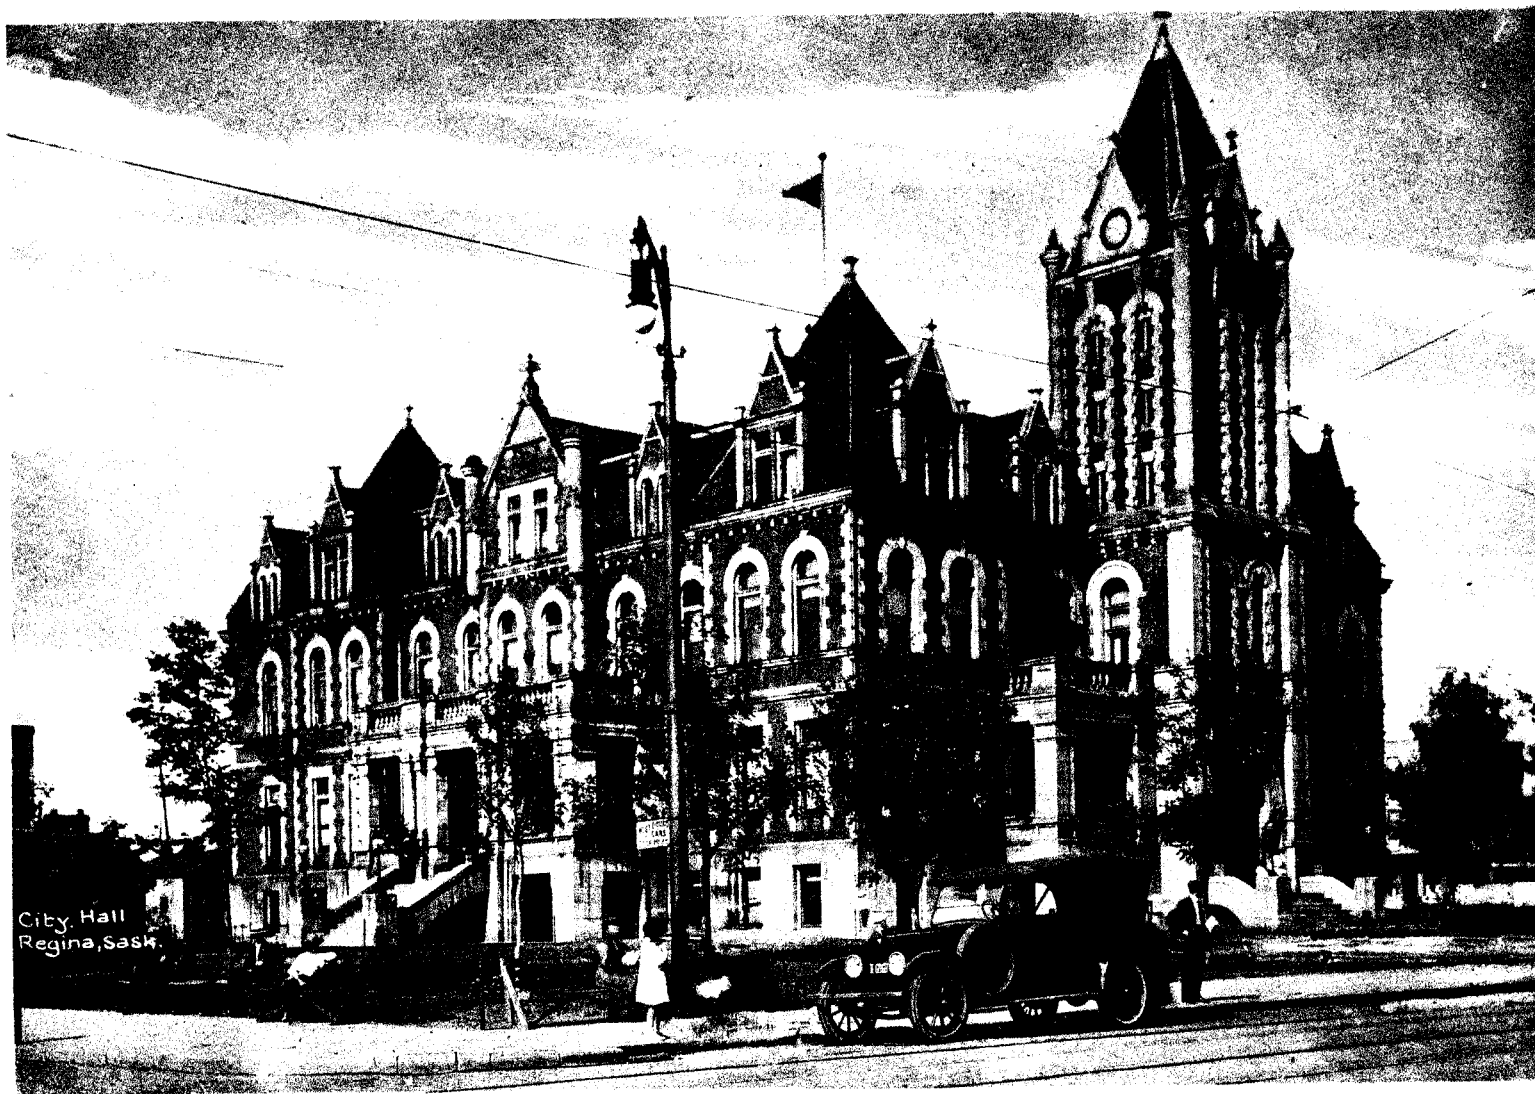

Regina has been established by the Canadian Railways as the distributing centre for the province and you will find represented in the city the agricultural implement concerns of the continent who compete for the yearly business which totals around twenty million dollars. You will also find over 150 wholesale concerns dealing in all kinds of commodities, while there are growing up factories for making goods suited to its economic opportunities.

The large and beautiful Bank Buildings in Regina testify to the fact that this is the financial centre of the Province and a drive through the city will prove that the educational requirements of the district have been adequately met by the numerous Colleges, Collegiates and Schools that adorn the city.

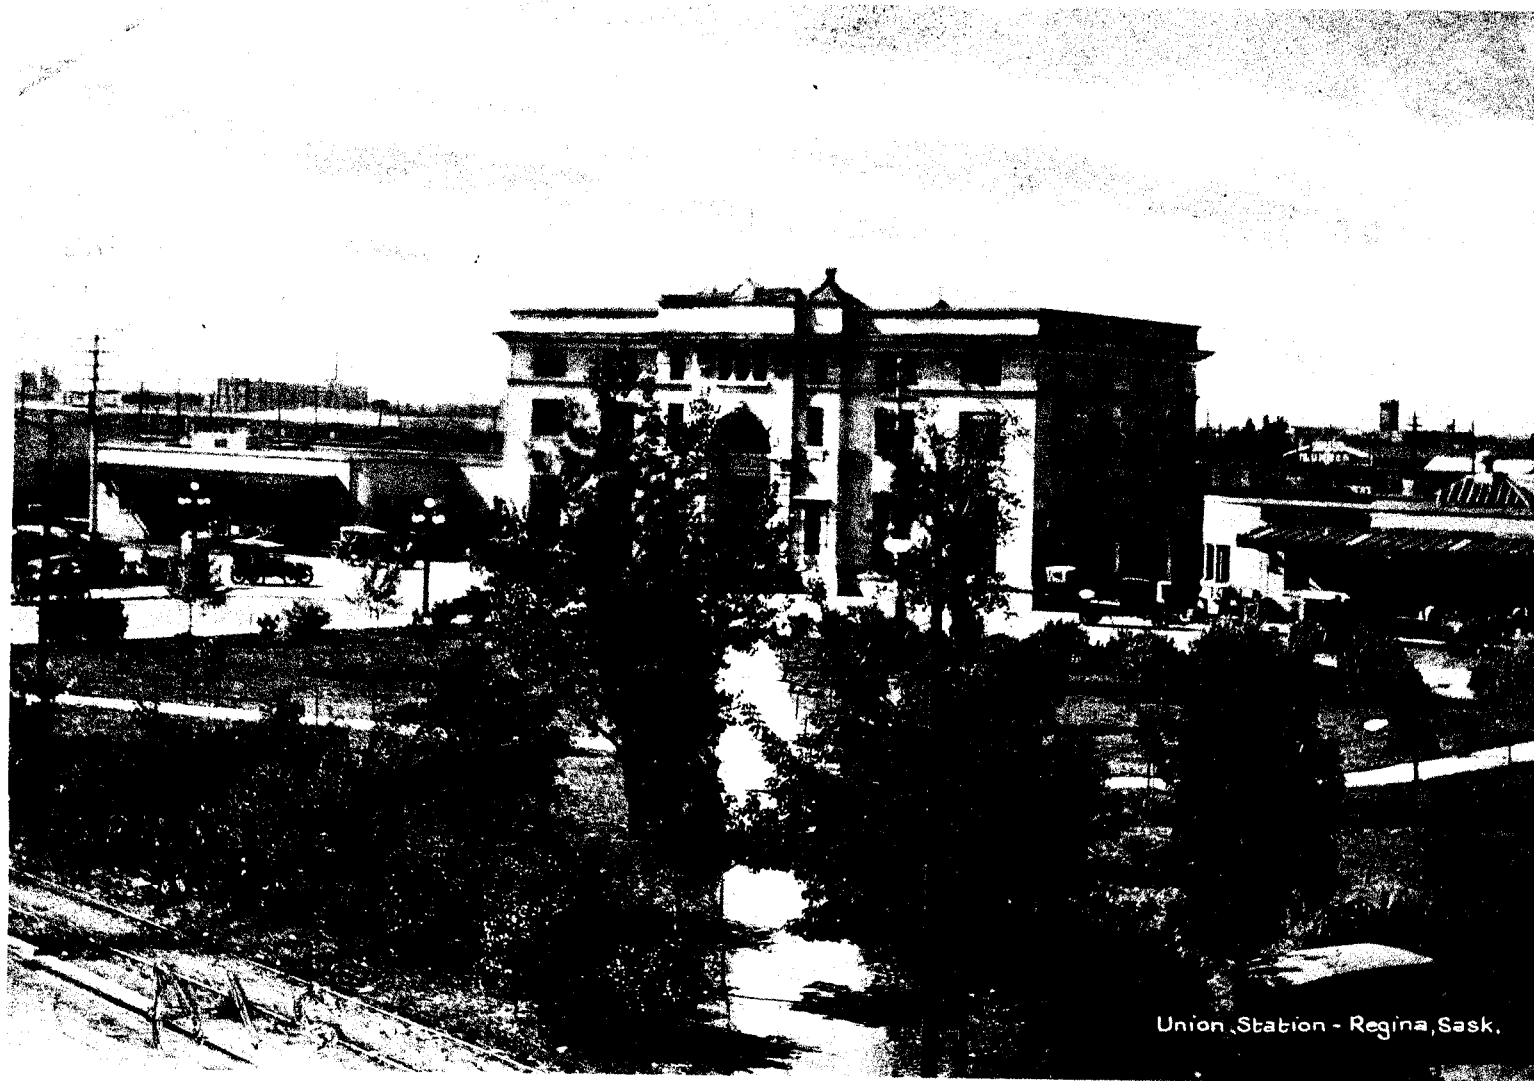

From small beginnings in 1885, the annual Regina Exhibition is now playing its part in the development of the province, its grounds consist of 80 acres one mile from the centre of the City, contains ten acres of floor space and an investment of over half a million dollars.
